HOT AND HAPPENIN' IDEAS FOR DECEMBER EVENTS/FUND RAISERS

1. Flyers on Cars

It might be a good idea for your school to sponsor a contest for students to make a Christmas flyer promoting partying alcohol, tobacco, and drug free. Place politely under the windshield wipers of student and faculty automobiles on the last day before the Christmas break.

2. Holiday HO-HO's

Ho! Ho! Ho! It's time for Santa Claus once again! Send a wrapped up chocolate Santa to a friend in class on the last day before Christmas break. What an idea!

3. Candy Cane Messages

The candy cane message is similar to the Holiday Ho-Ho's, but it obviously involves that yummy little morsel called - THE CANDY CANE!!! Send it to a friend and show that you care. You may also send a little message around with this little holiday delight and really make them happy!

4. Take a Photo with Santa

Remember the good ol' days? Well, you can still get your picture taken with Santa Claus! First, you have to locate Santa, and ask him if he would mind taking a few photos. You can have a set-up just like your favorite shopping mall. Then, you whip out the camera and snap a photo with the one-and-only Santa Claus! You might want to charge a certain price for such a memorable token.

5. Pick up the "Dead and Dreaded CHRISTMAS TREE!!!"

How many people get to go all the way to boonyville to unload the dreaded "after New Year's Christmas tree?" Well, your chapter could offer to the community to pick up trees . . . for a certain price, that is!!!

6. Candy Cane Reindeers

Another goody to send to your friend? You bet! Send them the grooviest candy cane they'll ever receive! Then you could tack on a mushy message to add the final touch. Simply twist some brown pipe cleaners around the top of the candy cane until you, hopefully, get some kind of antlers or horns or whatever you'd like to call them. Then you glue two "googly eyes" on to the "hook" part of the candy cane to get some kind of effect that looks like two eyes. Finally, tie a ribbon and your message (the one the buyer scribbles out on red or green paper) to the long part of the candy cane, and you've got a reindeer! Now go sell squillions of them and become rich.

7. Christmas Stockings

Sell Christmas Stockings full of goodies! You can find stockings that are relatively inexpensive to buy (preferably, not last year's gym socks) or make them out of red and white felt; then stuff them with things like FNL buttons, candy, little prizes such as secret decoder rings, or anything else you could ever imagine in a stocking. Now you're free to sell and, once again, bring in the bucks with this great Christmas idea!
